

LEADERSHIP SKILLS FOR TEACHERS

Teachers tend not to think of themselves as leaders but increasingly they are having to play a leadership role in the lives of their pupils and students. In the words of John Adams “A teacher affects eternity: no-one can tell where the influence stops. The word education is from the Latin edu-care: “the process of drawing out the latent talents of the individual”. Leadership is exactly the same process and involves the same skill set and personal attributes. This course will draw out your own leadership qualities and therefore enable you to be all the more effective as a teacher. This course also provides a large amount of English practice throughout.

- They will be familiar with language skills for leadership and the personal qualities of effective leaders.
- They will learn The What, the How and the Why of leadership.
- They will understand their motivation as teachers.
- They will understand what motivates their students.
- They will see the techniques for realising the potential of their students.
- They will create a vision for their students.
- They will give hope to their students, learn from great leaders and learn from other leadership paradigms.

- Teachers at all levels
- You need at least an intermediate level of English (B1) and above to participate in this course.
